Title	Description
Clock Cleaners	DATE - October 15, 1937
	DIRECTOR - Bert Gillett
	SUMMARY - Mickey, Donald, and Goofy have the perilous job of cleaning a giant, Big Ben-type clock.
	BEHIND THE SHORTS - The first short where there was equal time between the big three; obviously it worked, as subsequent team-ups featured them employed in various odd jobs.
	EDITED - A conservative media watchdog group successfully got this short pulled from Wal-Mart in the mid-90's after accusing Donald Duck of swearing. According to published storyboards of this sequence, Donald is saying, "Sez Who?", not the F-word as the accusation stated. Even though this line has existed for over 60 years without complaint, Disney nevertheless replaced the dialogue with audio from another short. The obvious edit takes place around the 4:01 mark. Donald now says "I'll get ya" while a dog is heard barking in the background. No dog (other than Goofy) appears in this short! Another edit takes place shortly after this scene, with Donald's line "snake in the grass" being replaced by indiscernible babbling.
Lonesome Ghosts	DATE - December 24, 1937
	DIRECTOR - Bert Gillett
	SUMMARY - Four green phantoms want some fun, so they invite ghostbusters Mickey, Donald, and Goofy over to their haunted home with the aim of driving them crazy.
	BEHIND THE SHORTS - One of the more well-known shorts among younger audiences due to its perennial Halloween airings, this cartoon used a special type of transparent paint for the ghost characters.
Mickey's Parrot	DATE - September 9, 1938
	DIRECTOR - Bill Roberts
	SUMMARY - Mickey and Pluto mistake a parrot for an escaped convict hiding out in their house.
	BEHIND THE SHORTS - The first short directed by Roberts. Also, the debut of Bianca, a fish belonging to Mickey.
Boat Builders	UNCENSORED - Mickey's got a gun.
	DATE - February 25, 1938
	DIRECTOR - Ben Sharpsteen
	SUMMARY - Mickey, Donald, and Goofy put together a "do-it-yourself" boat kit.
The Whalers	BEHIND THE SHORTS - Minnie is on hand to christen her namesake, the Queen Minnie .
	DATE - August 19, 1938
	DIRECTOR - Dick Huemer
	SUMMARY - Mickey, Donald, and Goofy set out on the open sea to harpoon a whale.
	BEHIND THE SHORTS - Two years later, a more realistic whale would appear in Pinocchio .
	UNCENSORED - Did we mention they are out to harpoon a whale?
